

Tuesday 24th March

Today's home learning task:

Read through the plan that you worked on yesterday. You should have two or three dinosaurs that are going to be in your adventure story and a good idea about something exciting that will happen.

Today I would like you to create a text map for your story. Spend some time telling your story to someone using your text map; it could be your brother or sister, parent, pet, teddy or tree!! The most important thing is to practise saying your story so that you are ready to write it down later in the week.

Here is mine to give you an idea...
